R-34 ENDS FLIGHT ACROSS OCEAN AND LANDS IN ENGLAND

Return Across Atlantic Achieved In 75 Hours And 3 Minutes

PLANS MODIFIED

Craft's Course Diverted From Scotland On Account Of Storm

LOG TELLS STORY

Feasibility Of Travel By Air Held To Be Proved By Achievement

(Reuter's Service)

London, July 13.—The Air Ministry announces that the R-34 landed at Pulham at 7:20 this morning.

Reports were that the R-34 was first sighted about fifteen miles north of Pulham at 5:56 a.m. (Greenwich time) heading almost due east. Turning south she circled over Pulham at 6:22 at 800 feet, landing safely at 6:57 a.m.

Tells Of Long Flight

The commander, Major Scott in an interview stated that the journey of the R-34 from America took 75 hours, 3 minutes. They had a thousand gallons of petrol left.

Numerous telegrams of congratulation have been received by the R-34.

The King telegraphed his hearty congratulations on the completion of the memorable and unique voyage.

Major Scott expressed the opinion that the most striking fact was that the return journey had been safely accomplished despite the most adverse and difficult weather conditions experienced, particularly on the outward voyage. He declared that he made an excellent landing at Pulham and had a thousand gallons of petrol left. The airship is undoubtedly the type for overseas work and with larger craft a speed of 70 to 80 miles an hour could be maintained.

Proves Travel Feasible

General Maitland is convinced that airships, which have a wonderful future, can be used commercially for the longest journeys. They would not conflict with areoplanes but would be complementary to them. Airships are extremely comfortable to travel in and there is no seasickness.

The Americans were most impressed by the voyage and realised the commercial possibilities of linking up Great Britain and America.

Final Messages Received

London, July 13.—3:15 a.m.—The Air Ministry reports the position of the R-34 at 12.33 this morning (Greenwich time) as 54.30 North, 6 West, steering southeast at a speed of 60 knots an hour.

The Air Ministry reports that the R-34 has been signalled at Pulham, 11 miles southwest of Norwich.

Orders Course Changed

London, July 12.—The R-34 at 3 o'clock this afternoon was 53.00 North, 15.20 West. The Air Ministry has instructed the liner to land at Pulham Aerodrome in consequence of the dangerous weather in Scotland.

The Air Ministry has received a direct wireless from the R-34 reporting her position at 2.00 a.m. (Greenwich time) as 51.12 North, 20 West, course 90 degrees, speed 40 knots.

He said that he never doubted where the heart and the purpose of the American people lay, and that in this day of new born liberty of the world America will not fail to extend support, sympathy, and assistance to those who have been made free. He said that some people do not understand, as they look too much upon the ground and think too much of the parties interested.

Talks To Sailors

On July 4, addressing the soldiers and sailors aboard the s.s. George Washington, the President said that the war would have been lost but for America; that a new freedom has come to the people of the world out of this war, and perhaps some time we shall reckon the freedom of the people as from the date when the Central Powers admitted defeat and accepted the armistice. He said:

"In every council we enter into, in every force we assent to, we shall make it conditional that the liberty of men throughout the world shall be upheld and America redeem her pledge to humanity and mankind."

To Tour Country

The Washington Star says that the President's itinerary in behalf of the League of Nations takes him to the Pacific coast where he will review the Pacific Fleet this month.

PACIFIC MAIL COMPANY PLANS FOUR BIG LINERS

Will Start Building As Soon As Government Announces Shipping Board Policy

Plans have been drawn by Pacific Mail Steamship Company engineers for four big trans-Pacific liners to carry 1,950 passengers and 12,000 tons of cargo. Work will be begun on the ships as soon as the United States Government announces a definite policy as to the future of the Shipping Board, according to Mr. R. C. Morton, General Agent for the Orient, who is in Shanghai attending the conference of Pacific Mail agents.

The new liners are to carry 300 first-class, 150 second-class and 1,500 steerage passengers. The ships are to be the biggest on the Pacific and the sea speed is announced as 22 knots.

Mr. Morton said that the promised after-war expansion program is to be put into effect as soon as the Government places the United States Shipping Board on a basis which will allow private companies to compete with government ships. Mr. Morton expressed the opinion that Mr. Hurley's resignation is taken as the first step toward a definite Shipping Board policy.

The Pacific Mail plans a weekly service to the Orient with four big liners sailing from San Francisco to Honolulu, Manila, Hongkong, Shanghai, Japan ports, Honolulu and San Francisco and four others making the trip from San Francisco to Honolulu, thence to Japan ports, Shanghai, Hongkong, Manila, direct to Honolulu and back to San Francisco. The Company hopes to buy at least four liners now owned by the Government. No definite plan has been made for the Ecuador, Colombia and Venezuela.

The ships now running across the Pacific may continue as intermediate steamers or be placed on the run to India ports, Mr. Morton said.

The Agents of the Company from Hongkong, Manila, Singapore, Kobe and Yokohama are holding daily conferences with Mr. W. A. Young, General Passenger Agent at San Francisco, and Mr. Walter L. Johnstone, Shanghai Agent.

Marshal Foch Is Given Plaque And Joffre And Petain Also Are Honored

(Reuter's Service)

Paris, July 11.—There have been conflicting and inaccurate reports in regard to General Joffre's participation in the triumphal march in Paris. It is now stated that M. Clemenceau sent a personal letter to Marshal Joffre inviting him to ride at the right hand of Marshal Foch.

On Sunday evening the public will be admitted to march past the Cenotaph, under the Arc de Triomphe.

Foch Gets Plaque

On Saturday Marshal Foch was presented at Versailles with a bronze victory plaque. President Poincare said all France loved the military leader who had won the great war of justice and right.

Marshal Foch replied, "There is no more eloquent page in our history than the citations of our pollus. A nation possessing such a store of devotion could not be beaten. The tasa of the chief was to seek inspiration in the will of the soldiers."

Swords Are Presented

Paris, July 12.—At 2 o'clock this afternoon, President Poincare at the City Hall presented the swords offered by the City of Paris to Marshal Joffre, Marshal Foch, and Marshal Petain. The Red fourragere was presented to several Paris regiments.

Japanese Charging Tolls In Shantung

(China Press Correspondence)

Pingtu, Shantung, July 15.—A fine rain fell yesterday, breaking the drouth which has been burning the crops of the farmers. There is now hope of a good crop.

Much agitation is now being felt among the Chinese near the Japanese controlled railroad, because of the latest move of the Japanese. They are charging a tax at all the railroad crossings, whether the road goes under the track or over it. One man reported that he had to pay five tiao tse ers (100 cash) in order to pass the tracks by the road which went under the tracks. He said the Japanese were collecting it all along the line. Thus we have a sample of the good faith of Japan in her relations to this country.

The Rev. Wm. H. Sears, who has been in charge of the evangelistic work of this station for 28 years, returned last week from his furlough, which was spent in Australia with Mrs. Sears' relatives.

FIRE IN SHANTUNG ROAD

The Fire Brigade made a quick stop of a fire which was reported shortly after noon yesterday on Shantung Road near the corner of Avenue Edward VII. A covered in drying stage containing a great many baskets and attached to a large provision shop at D 29-21 Shantung Road was the scene of the blaze and the fire was working its way down into the shop when a section of the Central Division arrived. A hose was run up to the under loft, the goods below were sheeted over to lessen water damage and under cover of another jet a fireman forced his way to the roof. The fire was brought under control in about ten minutes and the damage to the building was very slight. Sparks from a chimney started the blaze.

Wenchow Activities

(China Press Correspondence)

Wenchow, Chekiang, July 14.—Today M. Charles E. Tanant, Commissioner of Customs, and Madame Tanant are "At Home" to the community in honor of France. Chinese officials and the foreigners left in Wenchow at this season have been entertained with true French hospitality.

The new steamer on this run, the Yungshin, arrived from the south this morning and will leave tomorrow with a good cargo for Shanghai. After this, it is supposed to run between Shanghai and Wenchow direct, which seems to be an indication that there is enough business to make it pay. The Wenchow company has chartered the steamer from the Ningshao Company, but if they can make good after a fair trial they will probably buy this or some other steamer.

The organisation of the boycott is still proceeding, and is gathering more force instead of running down. The tailors' guild has sent out a printed notice that after the 1st of the 7th Moon (July 27) it will use no Japanese materials in making clothing, and any tailor found disobeying this rule is to be fined ten times the price of making the garment. Bands of men, boys and even women continue to go out every evening, addressing large crowds from the theatrical stages on the street or in temples, urging them not to buy Japanese goods or sell foodstuffs to the Japanese in Formosa or Japan. One band of church-members attracts attention by a choir of little boys that sing patriotic songs, while lighted lanterns add to the picturesqueness of the parade. The students keep at their detective work, and have had several Japanese-buying merchants punished by making them parade the streets dressed in peculiar red garments, which has meant quite a loss of face to some well-to-do shopkeepers. A proclamation has been put out by the taoyin to prevent this and some other acts that were beyond the province of the students.

Government To Pay For Loss Of Kiangkwon

Peking Cabinet Decides To Indemnify China Merchants' Co. For Ship Sunk

The Government will indemnify the China Merchants' Steam Navigation Company for the loss of the steamer Kiangkwan, according to a decision of the Cabinet Thursday. The sinking of the vessel followed a collision with the Hupeh Provincial Government gunboat Chuisai near Hankow.

Locally, the public is looking forward with interest to the judgment which is expected from the Special Naval Court appointed by a Presidential Mandate to conduct an inquiry into the sinking, which sat here at the Admiralty Court for over six months with several dramatic incidents. It will be remembered that twice the original claimants, the China Merchants' Steam Navaigation Co., withdrew from the case, the second time finally. The inquiry was, therefore, concluded after evidence from the Hupeh Government had been adduced.

and square. Times Square and Broadway were a remarkable sight.

Despite the early hour, 1 a.m., thousands of upturned faces could be distinctly seen. The whole scene was lit by the gigantic electrical signs. The air over New York was very disturbed owing to the approaching cyclone from the Great Lakes and also the heat rising from the city itself, but the airship rode very steadily.

"The R-24 headed for home at 1:10 a.m. at a speed of nearly 74 miles an hour. The weather is decidedly favorable and we are getting the full benefit of a 35 knot south-west wind. We crossed the American coast at 2:17 a.m., with four out of five of our engines running and the fifth resting."

9:15 a.m: We have already covered 430 miles from New York and our mails have been sorted. There is quite a large collection of parcels and letters, including some for the King, the Foreign Office, the Admiralty and the Postmaster-General and many copies of the Public Ledger for the editor of the Times.

10:45 a.m: We are now making eighty-three miles an hour on four engines. The forward engine has stopped.

4:50 p.m: We have covered 900 miles from New York in sixteen hours with a petrol consumption of a gallon a mile.

One Engine Breaks Down

July 11.—4:20 a.m.: One engine has completely broken down. Our speed is 26 knots an hour with three engines.

6:40 a.m.: We descended to 600 feet to get under the clouds but finding there a northerly wind replacing the warm air from the Gulf Stream we keep at 3,000 feet, where is a steady south-west wind.

Noon: A weather report from the Air Ministry says that there is an anti-cyclone off the south-west of Ireland so we change course more northward in order to get the west wind which must be blowing northwards of it.

4:30 p.m.: Owing to thick clouds extending right down to the water, we have not seen the sea since 8:30. this morning and so have no means of telling our speed.

5 p.m.: Our wireless has picked up H.M.S. Cumberland.

7:50 p.m.: Heavy rain has been falling since 5 o'clock. It is very cold and dark and all windows and doors are shut.

8:45 p.m.: We dropped a calcium flare and Lieut. Cooke took directions. We have picked up the East Fortune wireless, distant 1,100 miles.

Midnight: Rain is pouring down.

See Sunrise On Twelfth

July 12.—3 a.m.: There is a magnificent sunrise. The sun appeared above the clouds in a blaze of clouds, much impressing the crew.

6 a.m.: We are 760 miles from East Fortune, running on three engines with an airspeed of 32 knots. The clouds below look like a gigantic, soft, springy, fleecy white feather-bed and cause a strange drome.

We land at 6:57 a.m.

The total time for the return journey from Long Island is 75 hours, 3 minutes.

King George Receives Minister From Siam

London, July 14.—The King today gave an audience to the Siamese Minister, who presented his credentials.

Two Games This Afternoon Will Open Baseball Series

Doubleheader At Race Course With First Game Starting At Three O'Clock; British Consul To Throw First Ball

The baseball series starts today.

A doubleheader this afternoon will open the schedule of games to be played for the benefit of the Siberian funds of the British Women's Work Association and the new American School.

The British Consul-General will officially open the series at three o'clock when he pitches the first ball after being ushered to the pitchers' box by the American Consul-General, Mr. Thomas Sammons. Admiral W. L. Rodgers, Commander of the American Asiatic Fleet, and members of his staff are to be present.

The two games are to bring out all four teams entered in the series. Shanghai and the 15th Infantry of Tientsin play the opener with the 4th Philippine Infantry hooking up with the Navy nine in the second. Chapman and Logan will umpire.

The management is making arrangements to handle a big crowd as the fans are still talking about Thursday's game.

A band has been engaged and will play a concert before the game. There will also be music between the innings.

Although the game does not begin until three o'clock, the stands will be open at 1:30 because of the anticipated crowd. Holders of series' tickets will be seated in the main stand and half of the first base bleachers.

Seats in the remainder of the bleachers will be sold for two dollars while additional seats in right field are to be sold at one dollar. Dollar tickets will admit to the first base stands and sailors and soldiers in uniform will be admitted free to the left field section where benches have been placed behind the ropes.

Shanghai Booked To Win

Local fans are backing the Shanghai nine to beat the 15th Infantry. Johnny Scott is to pitch for Shanghai with Gill playing left field. Scott's speed and fast out drop should make a combination that will be hard for the doughboys to beat. Lieut. Gibbens will send White after the game.

The Navy will have a strong lineup for the second game. A left hander, Hunt, is to hurl and Becker is due to catch. The infield will be fast with Hopkins, Brunner, Henderson and Grenier while Wood, Crowley and Dimmick are to make up the outfield. Dr. Taylor is in charge of the Navy club.

The sailors will meet eight Filipinos and Bobby Steil. Masias and Malalis will be the Manila battery and otherwise the lineup will be the same that beat the 15th Infantry in the great 2-1 game on Thursday.

Doubleheader Sunday, Too

Tomorrow there will be another doubleheader with Shanghai playing the Filipinos and the Navy meeting the 15th Infantry. It is expected that Steil will spring his best bet in the pitchers' box, Birtulpo, against Shanghai for the Sunday game. Gill is to hurl for Shanghai and the southpaw should bother the Philippine champions.

China Political Notes From Chinese Press

Acting Premier Kung Hsin-chan has received news that hostilities between Fengtien and Kirin Troops have begun in Changchun and the main forces under the Kirin division commander, Kao Shih-ping, are concentrating in the city to check the onslaught of the Fengtien army.

Following the receipt of the report, Mr. Kung called a special meeting of the Cabinet at the Presidential Office and ordered that the new Tuchun of Kirin, General Pao Kwei-ching proceed to his office at once. It is understood that Pao will march to Kirin with a strong bodyguard to be followed by the entire Heilungkiang army, his old forces. The gap left in Heilungkiang will be filled by the troops of General Sun Li-chung, the deputy commander of the Fengtien Expeditionary Forces, who succeeds Pao as Tuchun.

While the Canton railway strike and the "electricians' walkout are over, people are again restless as the result of the declaration of the navy to support Dr. Wu Ting-fang as Civil Governor. Tuchun Mo Yung-hsin, the persistent opponent to Dr. Wu's' appointment, has resigned and trouble is anticipated.

The Presidential Office and the Cabinet at Peking have both emphatically denied the report that the Shantung question is under negotiation directly between Peking and Tokio.

Many Tuchuns have subscribed to the capital of the Bank of Territorial Development, which is being reorganised. Subscriptions from the provinces have amounted to $5,000,000. It is expected that the bank will be formally opened at the end of the month.

The sequestrated enemy ships, for the operation of which a company is being organised, will be used for commercial purposes and will be controlled by the Ministry of Communications. The claim of jurisdiction by the Ministry of the Navy has been overruled.

The Yi Shih Pao will resume its publication in the Legation district, Peking, shortly under American management, according to a notice served on the Ministry of Foreign Affairs.

Mr. C. C. Nieh, the Shanghai mill owner, has requested the government to make a thorough investigation of the report that Tuchun Chang Ching-yao of Hunan has arbitrarily sold the Hunan No 1 Cotton Mill.

If You Want MILEAGE
Firestone
Non-Skid is the Answer
Mileage — Firestone factories are always working ahead of the times, never satisfied with even Firestone's best. Unusual freedom from tyre trouble, more comfort and easier riding are all part of this new improved tyre.
MORE Mileage — In Firestone Tyres there is an extra amount of cushion stock and more rubber between fabric layers. This means greater wear resistance, as each layer is protected imfrointernal friction.
MOST Mileage — Performance is proving the superiority of Firestone Tyres at every point, making your shilling go farther, because your tyres run longer by miles—and Miles—and MILES.

ANNOUNCEMENT

Egg Drying Machinery

The Milk Drying Machinery Co., of Chicago, Ill., U. S. A., who have sold a number of egg-drying machines throughout China, will open an office and wareroom in Shanghai in the near future, where both the single and the double unit machines will be kept in stock, which will insure immediate deliveries.

There will also be kept on hand furnaces, pumps and all extra parts which may be needed to repair worn or damaged sections of the machinery.

The office will be in charge of Mr. A. F. Doyle, of Chicago. A uniform c. i. f. price will be quoted to all importing firms, and to our special representative, through which channels our machines will be sold.

The erection of the machines will be superintended by Messrs. B. J. Smith, P. Garretson and C. E. Howser, who have been overseeing this work in China for the past three years.

We are registering our five letters patent with the several American consulates in China. These patents fully cover our method and process and all infringements will be vigorously prosecuted, as will the users of the product made on any machines that infringe our patents.

Owners of egg factories desiring to install our machines for use early next season are advised to place their orders as soon as possible, as considerable delay in transportation and installation cannot be avoided.

The Militarist Illusion

THERE is one grateful feature in all these memoirs being published by various former war chiefs. They help to dispel some of the illusions about professional military men that years of war necessarily tend to weave. And that is a corrective highly beneficent in its effect. We had begun too much to drape our generals and admirals and such with the garments of perfection. And now they themselves are proving we were wrong.

Whether Kitchener blundered in sending the wrong kind of ammunition to Flanders or Lord French misdirected his forces is important now only as a matter of historical research. Whether Jellicoe was cautious to the point of timidity or the Admiralty had turned out his fleet insecure against the big German naval guns and submarines, as he charges, also is a subject only for historical dispute. So also as between Foch and Joffre and some of Joffre's early generals, about whom Lord French writes, sometimes caustically. And also the Gallipoli venture, for which Churchill has been berated. And also the Regular generals in the American army, about whom Congress is already giving let to its passion for investigations. And, on the other side, Ludendorff and the Berlin staff, who are blaming each other for the defeat.

What is important in all this is not which was right and which wrong, which made the mistakes and which won the victories. What arrests attention and fixes in memory is the proof, out of their own mouths, that the men who held in their decision the destiny of the millions under their command, did make mistakes, and each mistake was costly in human life. All the mystery of hidden powers and supermanish capacities that silly war correspondents romanced about the persons of the war chiefs for more than four years is dispelled by their own revelations about each other and apologiae for themselves. They had no hidden sources of knowledge or divine inspirations. They guessed, and often guessed wrongly. They had to judge from ordinary data and often blundered in judgment—and every misjudgment blotted out thousands of human lives. Often they—the generals and the heads of staffs—showed incapacity and lack of foresight that would have doomed them in civil life. If you are to decide now by what the strategists and generals themselves are saying, the battles were won by the generals that made the least mistakes. Heroism there was in plenty, men in the ranks and lesser officers went to their deaths nobly under orders they did not understand, but the illusion of the superiorities of military geniuses is fading. Whatever attractions and virtues militarism may have and whatever superiorities military life as a career, efficiency is not conspicuous as one of them. Probably you find far more of that in unassuming business life.

If through their own revelations they can readjust perspective on war and peace by realisation of that fact, then by all means let the generals be encouraged to go on revealing. The truth will do us good.

Maud Muller Mutatur

By F. P. A.

(New York Tribune)

In 1909 toilet goods were not considered a serious matter and no special department of the catalogs was devoted to it. A few perfumes and creams were scattered here and there among bargain goods.

In 1919 an assortment of perfumes that would rival any city department store is shown, along with six pages of other toilet articles, including rouge and eyebrow pencils.

—From "How the Farmer Has Changed in a Decade: Toilet Goods," in Farm and Fireside's advertisement.

Maud Muller, on a summer's day,
Powdered her nose with Bon Sachet.

Beneath her lingerie hat appeared
Eyebrow and cheeks that were well veneered.

Singing she rocked on the front piazz,
To the tune of "The Land of the Sky Blue Jazz."

But the song expired on the summer air,
And she said "This won't get me any where."

The judge in his car looked up at her
And signalled "Stop!" to his brave chauffeur.

He smiled a smile that it known as broad,
And he said to Miss Muller, "Hello, how's Maud?"

"What sultry weather this is? Gee whiz!"
Said Maud. Said the judge, "I'll say it is."

"Your coat is heavy. Why don't you shed it?
Have a drink?" said Maud. Said the judge, "You said it."

And Maud, with the joy of bucolic youth,
Blended some gin and some French vermouth.

Maud Muller sighed as she poured the gin,
"I've got something on Whittier's heroine."

"Thanks," said the judge, "a peppier brew
From a fairer hand was never knew."

And when the judge had had number 7,
Maud seemed an angel direct from Heaven.

And the judge declared, "You're a lovely girl,
An' I'm for you, Maudie, I'll tell the worl'."

And the judge said, "Marry me, Maudie dearie?"
And Maud said yes to the well known query.

And she often thinks, in her rustic way,
As she powders her nose with Bon Sachet,

"I never'n the world would 'a got that guy,
If I'd waited till after the First o' July."

And of all glad words of prose or rhyme,
The gladdest are, "Act while there yet is time."

PAYING OFF THE WAR DEBT

(New York World)

The American people have never subscribed to the view that a national debt is a national blessing. They assumed and promptly paid off the Colonial debts of the Revolution and within less than twenty years they paid the War of 1812 debts. They began to pay off the then appallingly great debt of the Civil War (about $2,600,000,000) with equal celerity, and were prevented from completing the job only by the fact that much of it had become tied up in the national-banking system as the basis of the note circulation.

When, therefore, Sena or Smoot of Utah proposes an immediate start in paying off the Nation's new war debt of over $20,000,000,000 he is not likely to meet with great opposition. His plan is feasible and sound. It calls for a permanent annual appropriation from tax revenues equal to a certain percentage of the principal of the debt. Whether this percentage should be 1, which would sink the debt in forty-four years, or as high as 2½, which would sink it in less than twenty-four years, is an open question with the Senator.

The lower percentage rate would seem to be high enough. It was the sinking-fund rate established on the Civil War debt. It is only fair that the payment of the debt should extend over a full generation, and this would be the case with a yearly payment of 1 percent on the principal. Moreover, a low rate which is stuck to is better than a high rate which would more certainly be exposed to intervals of suspension.

The new war debt is for the most part still selling well below par, where it can be bought for a sinking fund to the best advantage. The sooner a beginning is made along this line the better.

Egypt's Problem Not Yet Solved

London.—Though Egypt is reported quiet at the present time, the difficulties of the Egyptian situation, which the recent unfortunate events have brought prominently to the public notice, have not yet been solved. There is reason to believe that the matter is having the most careful consideration of the British Government, and that the recent unofficial statements, that Lord Milner himself will go to Egypt at the head of a commission to institute an inquiry, are not devoid of foundation.

The Christian Science Monitor European News Office has received from Egypt several statements from persons well acquainted with Egyptian affairs regarding the cause of the recent disturbances. One of these expressions of opinion is from Sir William Willcocks, the designer of the Assouan Dam: others are from moderate Egyptians. There is also a document of much interest in the shape of a circular which, in its original Arabic, has been distributed broadcast among the natives and shows the kind of incitement to violence to which they have been subjected. A European with long experience of Egypt and Egyptians writes: "That the natives are not yet advanced enough to govern themselves has most certainly been proved. Europeans' lives would not be worth a day's purchase if the army was to be withdrawn. It is very doubtful if confidence can be established shortly, and certainly not until the British show their real objects in being here and withdraw the censorship. They must do as Roosevelt said: 'Governor get out.' There is no other course that I can see. No business has been done since March 14. I believe the upper Egypt cotton crop is lost, and probably the doura and grain crops of the fall will also be lost. It is futile to say this will all fall back on the native and show him the folly of his ways. It will also hit European firms very hard, for the Egyptian cannot buy if he has no money to buy with."

The following memorandum represent the views of friendly Egyptians on the present situation, or at least on the situation which obtained in March of this year. It is contributed to The Christian Science Monitor by Sir William Willcocks at the request of its representative in Egypt.

"The keystone of the British occupation of Egypt was the fact that the fellaheen were for it. The Sheiks, omdehs, governing classes, and high religious heads might or might not be hostile, but nothing counted for much while the millions of fellaheen were solid for the occupation.

"The British have undoubtedly today lost the friendship and confidence of the fellaheen; and the party opposed to British rule is consequently strong for the first time since 1885.

"The friendship of the fellaheen has been lost for the following reasons: When the so-called voluntary enlistment of men for the labor corps and commandeering of animals for the army was set on foot, it was allowed to drift into a means of oppression of the poor and helpless. No serious supervision was exercised, and unscrupulous omdehs and officials had it all their own way. This was bad enough, but worse followed. When the demands were first made for corn and fodder, the rich were principally drawn upon as they could most easily afford it. They naturally complained, and, being influential people, had a hearing. Gradually, as the war was prolonged, the collection of corn and fodder became an instrument in the hands of the unscrupulous omdehs and officials to greatly oppress the poor and helpless. The more the stores of corn and fodder diminished the harder became the surrender of these stores; and the feelings of the fellaheen were outraged by seeing, for the first time in the British occupation, the most oppressive omdehs and officials patted on the back as men of action. It is quite common to hear the fellaheen saying today that 'the days of Ismail Pasha have returned. We thought the British the most capable and fair governors the world possessed when they first came; but since the proclamation of the protectorate, they have begun to shown their hand, and the wholesale plunder of the fellaheen has begun as it was under the Turks.

Hostility Of Upper Classes

"The upper classes have always been hostile, they have resented the ever-increasing number of Britons in government service who have taken the places coveted by the Egyptians themselves.

"Every well paid post with authority attached to it had been gradually monopolised by foreigners, and the Egyptians are becoming daily less capable of governing. The men chosen for ministers and sub-ministers are those who are meek and submissive and incapable of ruling.

"The really patriotic Egyptians would like to see a few really capable, sympathetic Britons at the head of departments but all other posts in the hands of their own countrymen.

"To win back the loyalty of the fellaheen and convince them of the good will of Great Britain toward them, an official inquiry should be made into the ruinously high rents the fellaheen are being made to pay. The mass of the fellaheen either own no land or possess such small holdings that their one occupation is renting land. The high prices of everything and the uncertainty of the yield of the cotton crop owing to the bollworm have upset the calculations of the fellah. Unscrupulous landlords in tens of thousands adhere to the letter of the engagement when the season turns out unfavorable, but break it with impunity and take more than their share when the season is favorable. For the fellah today, there is no appeal."

"I would like," says Sir William Wilcocks, "to add this on my own account: The inquiry should be followed up by legislation protecting the fellaheen.

"Perennial irrigation should be introduced into the fellaheen provinces of Kena, Girga and Assiout; and the state domain lands which are under cultivation should be divided into five feddan lots and sold to the fellaheen at reasonable rates and on reasonable terms.

"In the interests of the ever increasing number of educated Egyptians, the policy should be rigorously applied of filling up all vacancies by Egyptians and gradually leaving only really capable and sympathetic Britions as heads of departments. The British are here to teach Egyptians how to govern themselves and this is the only way in which it can be done.

"Such procedure will entail hard and incessant supervision and inspection on the part of the men who remain, but this is what existed in the early days of the occupation and no one was the worse for it.

"Not one Oriental in a hundred thousand has any idea of abstract truth, justice and loyalty. Everything is concrete. Many Orientals, working with capable and sympathetic chiefs, are as honest as the day, while the same men under incapable and unsympathetic chiefs are rascals.

"This is the key to understanding Oriental history. An ideal ruler in the East is like the God of the Hebrews; one to be loved and feared. All are sure that he wishes them well and loves them, and they therefore love him. They are equally sure that he is strong and will promptly punish or reward, and they therefore fear him."

The circular distributed in Arabic among the natives reads thus "Liberty is our Faith. Independence is our Ideal. Sons of Egypt, Our sweet country call you to do everything to chase the English, this miserable and rancorous people. Show that you are the children of a living Nation! Ask for your freedom. Don't be afraid of their appearance, don't fear the arms and machine-guns which they put on the roads with only object to frighten you. Make demonstrations to compel the unjust English to go away from our country.

"Ministers, Governors and Notables: The time came to prove that you are real children of Egypt, to prove that you represent her people, to whom you must inspire the hatred against the English. Now each of you must shew if he is honest or dishonest.

"Employees!" Cease every work! Join hands small and great. Ask for your liberty, and if the last English soldier does not go away, don't resume your duties.

"Officers and Soldier! do your duty. The time came to chase, by all means the miserable English! Egyptians! our country's happiness depends on you.

"Ask for your independence. Make demonstrations. Explain your object to the foreigners.

"If the English try to come to some understanding, one must be your reply: 'We want our independence and we will never be quiet as long as an English soldier stops here.' Have patience! God said: 'Blessed be the patient.'"

American Labor's Program

Proceedings at the American Federation of Labor at Atlantic City have been notable as a demonstration both of the steadily growing strength and of the essential conservatism of this representative body of workers, says the Springfield Republican. The growth of about 25 percent in membership during the year, bringing the total enrolment to over 3,000,000, reflects the activities of an exceptionally favorable period for organisation, but there is no reason to doubt that a large proportion of this gain is permanent. Steady growth has marked the federation's history from the beginning. The speeches of President Gompers and the others strongly asserting opposition to Syndicalist and Bolshevik radicalism, undoubtedly expressed the overwhelming conviction of the rank and file. But from the labor standpoint, there is no reactionism in the program as outlined by the executive council for the convention's consideration. Maintenance of wages commensurate with costs of living, reduction of hours corresponding with labor supply, physical needs and conditions of labor, and increasing participation of organised labor in the conduct of industry are its cardinal demands. Neither revolutionary nor destructive, but self-conscious, determined and powerful is this ably-led organisation.

Correspondence

Editor, THE CHINA PRESS.

Mr. Nichols of the American Red Cross pleads for entertaining the Siberian heroes just returned from active service. There can be little do[ubt] va[lue]

[redacted]

[fr]om home for 5 years, [du]ring which I was in the war. When I was 14 they put me in the army, in which my two brothers were already. After I joined I heard that my two sisters had also left hearth and home to do Red Cross work. Mother was left alone. I received one day in Siberia a field postal card with the laconic news, 'We are well, mother dead.' Poor mother, what happened, I don't know, but I imagine she died of grief at the loss of her five children and the agony of not knowing what terrible things might happen to them at any time.

"The next field postal card I got was shorter. It said: 'Brother dead.' I don't know which of them is meant—either or both?"

Saying so, the boy looked vacantly in another direction.

"What shall I find when I get home," he continued. "I do not remember the name of the street I was born in, much less the house number. Shall I find my home again? And whom shall I meet there? The few that are not dead are possibly strange people."

He paused and had nothing to say for a minute. What he felt can be better imagined. Taken away from school where he specialised in painting he was trained to do butcher's work—he who loved nature so much that he was going to copy her or even try to flatter by surpassing her. He was full of praise when he described to me how his class went through forests, mountains and valleys. How they studied every fold of Mother Earth, every flower and tree that came out of her bosom. And then he had to be an instrument himself to help to trample all down, to make the surface of this lovely world look like a desert, to kill beast and man. He sighed. His family's fate worried him most. His painter's instinct was next afflicted—not a word about his own suffering, about all the privations he had gone through.

"Shall I see you again before we leave?" was his eager query, pressing my hand hard at the same time. By some words I ventured now and then, by more than one silent hand pressure during the interview, he must have noticed sympathy for his hard lot, and I had to promise—a very agreeable promise—to meet him again.

And sympathy is the chief thing these soldiers want, real heartfelt sympathy. This is also natural when we consider that they had come from the wilderness, the brutality, the cynicism of an incomparable situation. To say that they come from hell to earth again hardly expresses enough. Many of them can hardly believe that they are still alive.

Mr. Nichols' appeal should produce enough sympathy in Shanghai to make these heroes feel that they are really alive and nearing their homeland. Shanghai will then be ever included in their hearts. And we are, or should be, the last to mind that they are not in evening dress.

"Le Petit Corporal."

Shanghai, July 18, 1919.

A Voice From The Past

The President succeeded on this occasion because he acted without sense and without constraint in a panorama that was gotten up more for the benefit of his party than for the glory of the Nation and the honor of the dead. . . .

We pass over the silly remarks of the President; for the credit of the Nation we are willing that the veil of oblivion shall be dropped over them and that they shall no more be repeated or thought of.

This is not an extract from an editorial in any newspaper of this city. Nor were the sentiments quoted above taken from any of the public utterances of Senator Poindexter or Senator Sherman or Senator McCormick. They are from an editorial that was printed in the Harrisburg Patriot and Union on November 24, 1863, and have no reference to Woodrow Wilson.

The President in question was Abraham Lincoln. The "silly remarks" were the Gettysburg speech. —New York World.

Britain Planning Development Of Timber Wealth

A conference representative of all branches of the British timber industry is to be held in London in the near future, for which arrangements are being made by the English Forestry Association and the Royal English Arboricultural Society. The object of the conference, reports The Manchester Guardian, is primarily to encourage the use and demand for British timber and to develop the home-grown timber trade and the encouragement of forestry. The intention is to invite woodland owners, estate agents, architects, builders, timber merchants, and particularly those who use or specify timber. It is admitted by all authorities that there is a large quantity of oak, elm, beech and other timber in the country which is admirably suited for many purposes and which possesses qualities far superior to those of the foreign product, and a serious effort will be made at the conference to remedy a condition of things that does not reflect creditably upon home industry.

According to the report of the forestry sub-committee of the Reconstruction Committee, the United Kingdom before the war was dependent for more than 60 percent of its timber on the virgin forests of foreign countries, which are being steadily depleted. The proportion derived from sources within the empire fell from 22 percent in 1899 to 10 percent in 1913. In the latter year there was imported 10,431,809 loads of timber, and official figures show that this quantity was made up thus: Russia, 5,196,826 loads; Sweden, 1,759,417 loads; France, 984,331 loads; Dominion of Canada and Newfoundland, 897,217 loads; United States of America, 511,351 loads; Norway, 437,106 loads; Portugal, 315,538 loads; Germany, 206,081 loads; Spain, 103,123 loads; small lots from other countries, 20,319 lods. In 1915 the imports of wood and timber were approximately equal to 75 percent of the normal pre-war imports of these goods, and in 1916 to 63 percent. Such reductions as had been designedly effected in furniture woods had not affected materially the percentages for other categories, except in the case of converted soft woods, which amounted to 31 percent of the pre-war amount in 1915 and to 66 percent in 1916.

Every year we have become more dependent upon Russia for our timber supplies, but apart from the fact that the virgin forests of that country cannot last forever its internal troubles preclude the certainty of future supplies to an even limited extent. Canada may have reserves, and supplies might be obtained from countries like Norway and Sweden, but there would have to be a proportionate sacrifice of shipping which will be urgently required in other directions probably for some years. Official reports show that the total proportion of shipping utilised for wood and timber, wood manufactures and pulp of wood for 1909-'13 was 13.1 percent.

The suggestion has been advanced that the shipping problem might be met by towing the timber on rafts, but there is great risk of these being broken up by gales in the Atlantic or even the North Sea. But if the shipping difficulty could be overcome, and if large supplies were available from foreign countries (which is doubtful in view of the demands which will be made for timber in the devastated war areas), there is a feeling today that in the interests of the homeland a determined effort should be made to utilise our own supplies, and thus assist in setting British forestry on the firm foundation so necessary if the contemplated scheme of afforestation is to rest on the basis of assured financial success.

Before the war there were approximately 3,000,000 acres of wood in the United Kingdom, and the total annual felling had been estimated at 45,000,000 cubic feet, of which 30,000,000 cubic feet were conifers and 15,000,000 cubic feet hardwoods. On the basis of this estimate the yield was less than 15 cubic feet per acre per annum—a result which it is hoped to considerably improve. During the war home fellings increased. There are, however, great quantities of English oak, elm and other timber still available for the use of the homeland, and there are available at the present time also large supplies of pitwood for collieries, and especially native hardwoods for building purposes, railway demands and reconstructional work generally.

There is a belief that users of timber have been left in the dark upon many matters of the details of which they should be fully cognisant. If a revision of railway rates could be effected it would lead to a considerable reduction in the cost of timber to the consumer. This aspect of the position has been emphasised more than once by timber growers, who contend that the railway rates should be no more than the timber will reasonably bear having regard to the price obtained at the consuming center which hitherto has been fixed by the price of imported timber.

Union Hours For Mother

The exigency of breadwinning and of taking men's places during the war has waked up our entire feminine middle class here and in England to the fact that their time is worth something, and the result of this awakening is sure to be far-reaching. And when Mrs. Average Housekeeper rises up and demands wages there is little logic in refusing her.

Many a farmer's and suburbanite's wife who last summer gardened enthusiastically became also very expert at canning. I know of one—probably there are hundreds—who canned so well that she built up quite a pretty business, which in itself would be labor enough without the added chore of general housework. What is such a woman to do now that her men have returned and her housekeeping duties increased and no vision of a maidservant gladdens the landscape? Will she abandon her new-found business and economic independence? I doubt it.

The care and training of children is job enough in itself, and that of keeping the house another; and many a woman who finds managing the two jobs simultaneously a burdensome undertaking would prefer the children and choose rather that the housekeeping be dropped on other shoulders. If a woman keep up with her husband mentally, if she join clubs and take outdoor exercise and read, as the farmer's wife is pleasantly urged to do by summer boarders, in order that she may be a "sweeter wife, a rested mother," that is in itself another job. Herein may lie the appeal of Mormonism to some women who would prefer being one of a trio to being the first of a series.

Judging by union standards, the good lady in Proverbs, belauded as she has been for centuries, set a most questionable example. Her price might be above rubies, but what business had she to "rise up early in the morning, before it was yet light" and continue all day her industrial pace-setting? It couldn't have been good for her husband either, for all we hear of his activity is that he "praised her" and that he "sat in the gates"—which latter I take to be the Biblical equivalent of sitting on the porch of a country store with his feet on the rail, taking all her labor for granted.

Shanghai Kelantan Rubber Estates Meeting

The annual general meeting of the Shanghai Kelantan Rubber Estates, Ltd., previously adjourned in respect to the memory of Mr. Wrightson, was held yesterday afternoon in the offices of the secretaries and general managers, Messrs. Meyer and Measor, 6 Yuen Ming Yuen Road. Mr. N. G. Maitland occupied the chair and there were also present Pere F. Sallou, director; Mr. E. A. Prince, secretary, and shareholders representing altogether 28,290 shares. When the notice convening the meeting and the auditors' report had been read the chairman said:

Gentlemen: the annual reports and accounts have been in your hands for the prescribed period and I will, with your permission, take them as read.

"Since the last reports, there is a variation in the acreages planted during the years 1911 and 1912 caused by the destruction of 30 acres by fire, the result of lightning. This area, however, has now been planted up again. During the year the actual area planted was 111 acres but as this includes the 30 acres that were burnt, the planted area since last year has thus been increased by 81 acres, bringing the area under cultivation up to 778 acres. There is also an area of 91 acres that has been felled but conditions do not warrant further work thereon being undertaken for the present. The output for the year shows a shortage of about 9,000 lbs. as compared with the estimates, but this is attributed to ill health and unfavorable weather conditions. The returns on the whole, however, show an improvement on those for the previous year.

"The f. o. b. cost of production for the year was 13.94d. per lb. against 14.94d. per lb. for the previous year, being a reduction of one penny. This figure shows an increase of 2d. per lb. on the estimates which is explained by the disorganisation of estate works due to the influenza epidemic, unfavorable weather and labor conditions. For the current year the output is estimated at 135,000 lbs. but owing to the abnormal weather conditions, it is questionable if this figure will be reached. The returns for the first four months are not satisfactory and it is quite possible that the figure may have to be revised.

"In respect of weeding, the estate may be regarded as in good order; the average cost of this work over the whole estate for the year was $1.72. This figure is high, but it includes the cost of ploughing. Although ploughing is expensive work it is considered that expenditure under this heading will be more than justified by the results obtained. Owing to the labor conditions, very little work in connection with thinning out was done. Diseases on the estate are in no way abnormal and Brown Bast etc. are to be found but not to any extent.

"The general position in respect of our labor was that though difficulty was experienced at times, the force was kept fairly well up to requirement. The health on the estate was satisfactory but the epidemic of influenza during November and December caused considerable dislocation of labor. Health conditions generally in the district were not up to the standard of previous years. Mr. W. A. Smith is still in charge of the estate and our agents report well on his work. Mr. Day, the visiting agent, paid regular quarterly visits to the estate and during the year the Rubber Growers' Association mycologist paid a visit and the reports of both these gentlemen were of a satisfactory nature.

"I will now deal with the accounts. I regret to have to inform you that the adverse conditions which have prevailed over the whole of the year under review with regard to both rubber production and sale price have resulted in an unfortunate financial position. The result of the year's working shows a loss of Tls. 16,462.09 but it should be mentioned that this amount includes the item of Tls. 19,016.64, Interest on Debentures, so that the actual loss on the working of the estate together with Shanghai expenses is Tls. 6,445.45.

Regarding the amount of Tls. 6,460.40 appearing under the heading of Loan Account, this sum represents debenture interest for six months to December 31, 1918. The debenture holders, however, in view of the financial position of the company have kindly allowed this amount to remain as a loan to the company free of interest. Our overdraft at the bank is Tls. 19,456.79 but as the estate has shown a profit on the working of the first four months of the year and the debenture holders are willing to allow their interest for the first half of 1919 to remain as a loan, it is not anticipated that this amount will be increased. This state of affairs, however, cannot go on indefinitely and your directors are now considering a scheme in order to raise sufficient funds to pay outstanding liabilities and to provide capital for extensions.

"Before concluding, I would like to take this opportunity of recording the directors' appreciation of the work done by our secretaries and general managers, as well as by our Straits agent and estate manager.

"I will now propose the first resolution: "That the report and accounts for the year ended December 31, 1918, as printed and circulated be passed. This is seconded by Pere F. Sallou, but before putting this resolution to the meeting, I shall be pleased to answer to the best of my ability any questions shareholders may wish to ask."

No questions were asked and the first resolution was passed unanimously, as were also the following others:

"That Mr. N. G. Maitland be re-elected a director of the company.—Proposed by Pere F. Sallou, seconded by Mr. E. A. Prince.

"That Pere F. Sallou be re-elected a director of the company.—Proposed by Mr. C. J. Stewart, seconded by Mr. K. Hara.

"That Messrs. Lowe, Bingham and Matthews be elected auditors of the company at an annual remuneration of Tls. 300 for Shanghai and Singapore.—Proposed by Mr. N. G. Maitland, seconded by Mr. K. Uyeno.

McAdoo Is Said To Have Purchased 30-Acre Site Near Santa Barbara

Santa Barbara, Cal., June 8.—Woodrow Wilson's "History of the Great War" will be written at Santa Barbara, according to present indications.

The President is expected to start work on the stupendous task, which is to include also a story of the writing of the peace treaty and the formation of a league of nations, soon after he retires from public life.

Basis for these conclusions lies in the reported purchase here on a recent visit by William G. McAdoo, former Secretary of the Treasury and son-in-law of the President, of a thirty-acre tract on a hillside overlooking the city and the sea and commanding an unobstructed view of towering Mount La Cumber to the east.

The consideration is reported as G. $60,000. It is said that Mr. McAdoo will oversee the development of the site, which will be divided into two estates, one for Mr. Wilson and the other for Mr. McAdoo. It was understood that the erection of two houses and the development of the estates would be so timed that they would be ready for occupancy by the time the President shifts his mantle to his successor.
